

With such energy being spent to reword our constitution so paranoid homophobes can rest assured that gays will not invade the debacle that they call the institution of marriage, please don't tell me this issue will slip by without attention.